

Our clients will have two characteristics. The first is that they are conscientious about the current situation on the planet, and they have to be willing to help. On the other hand, we will also address people who find it difficult to overcome a death, and are psychologically unstable in this situation.